SAINTS

Saints come in all shapes and sizes and they become patrons for the oddest reasons. Over time it becomes hard to separate truth from folklore.

St. Polycarp was a revered Christian leader and a friend of John the Apostle and Ignatius of Antioch. He was known as a teacher and practical leader. When he was 86 he was sentenced to death by being burned at the stake, but the flames did not harm him. So they stabbed him to death with daggers and then burned him. This second attempt succeeded. For reasons that remain murky, he has been traditionally invoked against dysentery. Perhaps his work took place in an area where dysentery was wide-spread. He's also against earaches, and no one is sure why.

St. Barbara's father was a wealthy man named Dioscorus. When she converted to Christianity, he was so angry he had her tortured and then beheaded her with his own hands. But on the way home from her execution, he was struck by a lightning bolt and died. People started calling upon Barbara during thunderstorms, then prayed to her against sudden deaths in general. When gunpowder and artillery were invented and used—where sudden deaths became more common—St. Barbara became identified with all the explosion-based activities, and thus became the patron saint of fireworks.

Born circa 560 in Spain, the young St. Isidore was a lousy student. Instead of giving up, he turned to God for help. With that help he became one of the most learned men of his time, writing a dictionary, encyclopedia and complete history of the Goths. (He should not be confused with St. Isidore the Farmer—who was also Spanish—and who is the patron of, you guessed it, farmers and rural communities.) Today the scholar Isidore is widely recognized as the patron saint of both computer users and schoolchildren. In 2003 he was invoked as the patron saint of the internet. Do you think he has a blog?

Captured by Muslims during the First Crusade, St. Adjutor is said to have escaped by swimming (either swimming to Crusader territory or swimming all the way to France; or he might have been recaptured, but then miraculously transported back to France by St. Mary Magdalene.) Or he might have calmed a whirlpool that had emerged beside a boat he was traveling on. Water was involved with him somehow which is why he's now considered the patron saint of swimmers and those in danger of drowning.

The Torture of Saint Barbara

St. Columbanus loved the open road so much he spent much of the 6th and 7th century roaming around Europe—and that led to him being considered the patron saint of motorcyclists. (And you thought that was St. Harley.)

In the early 15th century St. Bernardino of Siena was such a well-known and crowd-pleasing public preacher, he's now considered the patron saint of advertising and public relations.

If you google around enough, you'll probably be able to find a patron for everyone and every endeavor. Somewhere I saw recently that there was even a patron saint for murderers; no, it must have been a patron saint of ex-murderers, of repentant murderers, or maybe for those who are so angry that they are tempted to murder someone.

CONFIRMED

Congratulations to our 58 teens who were confirmed on Saturday, May 21st! It was truly a beautiful celebration with our new Bishop Thanh Thai Nguyen. Many of these teens will be continuing their journey with us in Lighthouse which kicked off last Sunday.

OUR MISSION:

Saint Anne Church exists to help us become disciples of Jesus Christ who connect with God, grow in faith, and serve in love.

FIRST HOLY COMMUNION

Before receiving Our Lord in Holy Communion, our children are drawn into further understanding of prayers, who Jesus is, and what their relationship is with Him. As these children gather and are nourished by Jesus' own body, they will take this loving gift with them into the world. Those receiving First Holy Communion on Saturday, May 5th at 10:30 a.m. include:

Logan C., Noah C., Tristan C., Caden D., Lincoln F., Elizabeth G., John H., Luke L., Miles N., Luke P., Grant R., Lylah R., Saulo Q., and Riley T. Please pray that their relationship with Jesus continues to be strengthened through the Eucharist.

WILLS AND TRUSTS

During the week of May 21-26, the Orange Catholic Foundation will provide eleven Wills and Trusts sessions throughout the Diocese. St. Anne will be hosting one of the sessions on Wednesday, May 23rd from 9:30-11:30 a.m. Estate planning and having a Will or Trust in place are responsibilities that all of us should take seriously. All presenters are Catholic Estate Planning professionals. During the session, they will answer questions regarding estate taxes, probate, trusts, guardianship, selecting a personal representative, and steps on how to create or update your plans. Individuals and couples who attend will be offered a complimentary consultation to be used within six months. If you don't have a Will or Trust or you need to update yours, please try to join us. Mark your calendars now—more information will follow in the next few weeks.
