ATONEMENT

Sacrifice is on order during Lent. Many people give up sweets, or booze, or chocolate, or betting on the horses. If you are sacrificing in any way shape or form, don't let me stop you. But let me offer an alternative. How about more silence in your days?

As soon as we wake up, we check the newspaper, or switch on the TV, to find out what's been going on in the world while we slept. On our way to work, the radio plays more news or maybe commentary or even classical music. At work we talk to our colleagues and clients or email them or text them or talk to them on the phone. Back home after work we fill in our family and friends with reports on how things went at work today and we listen to them do the same. Then the TV goes on or we play cards, but only after the dishes are rinsed and set in the dishwasher. It was an action-packed day.

We often do the same when we pray; we use lots and lots of words, even though Jesus warned that "When you pray, don't babble on and on as the Gentiles do. They think their prayers are answered merely by repeating their words again and again."

What would happen if we didn't have constant input, what if we let the words evaporate and let a wordless silence take over? It won't be easy as we are not in the habit of unplugging. At first we will feel agitated, quickly remembering that chore that hadn't been completed, what needs to be added to the shopping list, who to call to check on how they are doing. Then some topics come to mind that don't usually get a chance to take the stage: Weakness, for example. Saint Isaac counsels, "Blessed is the person who knows his own weakness, because awareness of this becomes for him the foundation and the beginning of all that is good and beautiful."

Then there is unfinished business: a hurt that we have been nursing, something we should have said to someone but didn't have the courage to say when we had the chance, questions about how deeply others feel about us, fears of what will happen to us in the future. These float up like balloons from the county fair. We try to set them aside as quickly as possible. They remind us of how vulnerable we are, and we want to think of ourselves as strong, even powerful. Our restlessness keeps reminding us that "we are all born vulnerable," Edwidge Danticat has written. "Unlike an actual house we are not made of wood, stone, concrete, mortar, or cement. We are easily broken, and we might end up spending the rest of our lives trying to find some way to fix that brokenness." We might ask ourselves: what are we trying to avoid that we keep up with so much noisy chatter and so much shallow busyness?

Silence has an upside: silence is a place where we might come to glimpse and thereafter know our real condition. There we can nakedly confront ourselves. We might even come to appreciate our vulnerability. Those who are troubled will not seek out those who proclaim boldly how they do indeed have their act together; rather, they are attracted to similarly wounded people. A recollected you may be exactly the person someone needs to talk to.

Silence and stillness is promoted as a cure for modern life's frenzy. And it is one of its attractions but that is not the whole thing. Once we settle down and become friends with it, it is not for its side effects that we persevere in silent prayer. After a time we come to this prayer with only one desire—to come into the presence of the living God.

Which brings us to the English word atonement. It comes from combining the words at-one-ment. It was coined in the sixteenth century for the express purpose of imbuing our theologies with a more vivid awareness of how it is that Christ saves us—He joins himself to us. In silent prayer we join ourselves to him.

PASTORAL SERVICE APPEAL

OUR FAITH OUR FUTURE

"...be doers of the word, and not hearers only." James 1:22

What does your faith mean to you? Faith is something so personal that words cannot easily explain it. Faith can bring peace amidst turmoil, and true joy even in difficult circumstances. As Catholics, we are called to freely live out our faith and to give back to others as Christ has poured Himself out for us.

The PSA reaches thousands of people each year in our community. By supporting the PSA you assist in ministering to the imprisoned, evangelizing Catholic youth, and strengthening families. Please complete your pledge today and drop it in the mail to the Diocese of Orange.

ENVIRONMENTAL TIPS

LAUDATO SI'

Going shopping? Invest in reusable grocery bags, produce bags, bulk food bags, and any necessary containers to buy bulk items (olive oil, eggs, maple syrup, sugar, coffee). Many co-ops and Whole Foods have bulk aisles with a wide range of items. Avoid packaging whenever possible. If you buy packaged items, always choose paper/glass/metal over plastic.

CENSUS 2020

U.S. BISHOPS ON THE CENSUS:

“Our country conducts a Census every ten years to count the number of men, women and children residing in the United States. Census data helps direct more than 800 billion annually to key programs designed to advance the common good, strengthen families and reduce poverty. The Catholic Church and other service providers rely on the national Census to provide an accurate count in order to effectively serve those in need.”
